

news.biggs.net

About Us

Contact Us
Biggs Games

NewsWire

Top News
News Syndication

Publish

ARTS AUTOMOTIVE BUSINESS COMPUTER EDUCATION FAMILY LIFESTYLE MEDICAL SOCIETY SPORTS TECHNOLOGY

SEARCH

Go advanced search

- Latest News
- Latest Comments
- Top News
- Archives
- Games
- Syndication

national news / business news / press release

Kingsgate Resources Inc. Donates Funds for Ghanaian Girls' Education: Dream for Children Restored After The Province Publishes Story

By: Remi Consultants (PRWEB)
Thursday, Jul 19 2007, 4:56am

Kingsgate Resources Inc., a mining company that was founded by Joseph Kingsley Annan, the nephew of the former United Nations two-term Secretary General, Kofi Annan makes dream a reality for Ghanaian girls.

ARTICLE TOOLS

- Print
- Save Article
- del.icio.us
- Digg it
- Technorati
- RSS

SPONSORED BY

SkinStore.com

Ads by Google

HSBC Bank International
Get Advice From Specialists A Solution For Everyone
www.hsbc.com

Children's Charity
Sponsor a child for only $35/month
Change a life.
Change your own.
WorldVision.ca

WorldVision.ca

Ads by Google

Canadian-based gold mining and exploration company Kingsgate Resources Inc. has donated the requisite funds for a full year's education for 74 girls and has pledged a further five year's funding for 130 young women. The way in which this came about is a bit extraordinary.

On May 25, 2007, the Province published a story about a filmmaker's hopes to help young women in Ghana being dashed by a Vancouver thief.

Shannen O'Brian, 25, recently spent 15 months in Ghana, a county in West Africa of 23 million.

Six months of her time in Ghana was spent filming and photographing 130 young girls.

Her aim was to produce a documentary film detailing their lives and to use the film to initiate a sponsorship program for them.

O'Brian's idea was to approach Canadians to donate the money the girls needed to be educated beyond primary level.

All it takes to pay for one girl's education in Ghana from Grades 7 through 12, she says, is $400 to $500, roughly $8 a month.

Each prospective sponsor in O'Brian's program was to have received a video of their sponsored girl.

She returned to Canada in February and was working on editing the footage.

O'Brian's plan was derailed within the space of 30 minutes when someone broke into her Ford Explorer parked on Robson and Bute in downtown Vancouver, British Columbia.

"They took not only my computer with all my editing on it, they took my backup hard drive, my raw tapes, video camera, camera, pictures, everything.

I had nothing left."

Not knowing what to do next, O'Brian contacted the Province and a story was printed on May 25, 2007.

"I had to do something," said O'Brian. "I had 130 girls that thought they were going to school in September and their future was at stake.

So I contacted the Province in hopes of having someone with some information come forward so that these girls could get an education.

I didn't know how I was going to explain to them why they weren't going to be able to go to school."

The project is especially important, O'Brian explained, as girls in Ghana usually stop going to school earlier than boys because they are needed to work at home.

Just 67 per cent of Ghanaian women aged 15 and over are literate compared to 83 per cent of men.

What happened next was not something O'Brian had expected.

When Abbotsford resident Satinder Dhillon read the story published on May 25, 2007, he knew he had to do something.

Dhillon stated that he personally knows how it feels to be expecting something to happen in a certain time frame and the devastating impact it can have on adults and children living in North America let alone these young children who were looking forward to a different life finally in a third world country.

Dhillon, 29, is the CEO and President of Kingsgate Resources Inc., founded by Joseph Kingsley Annan, the nephew of the former United Nations two-term Secretary General, Kofi Annan.

Kingsgate is a company based out of Calgary and its principle focus is gold mining and exploration in Ghana, West Africa.

Dhillon stated that Kingsgate has paid for the first year for 74 of the girls Ms. O'Brian had yet to raise money for, to go to school and the company has pledged to pay for the entire six year plan for all of the 130 girls as presented by Ms. O'Brian.

"We hope this is a stepping stone to improving the quality of the lives of more than just these 130 girls," stated Dhillon.

"We have discussed with Ms. O'Brian the possibility of expanding this project to include new water wells for those in need in Ghana and other parts of Africa and assisting more young kids with the education they need to improve their future."

"It is not everyday you meet dedicated individuals such as Ms. O'Brian who are taking time out of their lives to help others.

She has an incredible passion for what she is doing and it is very evident and contagious," Dhillon said. "It gives you the motivation to want to help any way you can."

After reading the article published in The Province, Dhillon contacted Erwin Singh Braich, Trustee of The Peregrine Trust, the largest shareholder of Kingsgate and the decision was made to move forward with this project.

"We are so fortunate to be living in a country such as Canada and have the freedoms and facilities we do," stated Braich, a well-known Canadian industrialist and philanthropist. "It is heartbreaking to think of what others around the world have to go through just to survive on a day to day basis.

For the price of two Starbucks lattes a young child can go to school for a month and have money left over ... depending on what size of latte you prefer of course!"

Braich added that in addition, "currently one of our Group's Directors of Operations for Africa, Mr. J. Von Hardenberg, has been in the Democratic Republic of Congo for months at a time.

This country has recently held their first free elections in over 40 years.

"This recent election was the largest such mission ever taken on by the United Nations and thus far appears for the most part to have quelled the violence that has taken the lives of over 4 million people."

"We hope to be able to assist this very young democracy grow and flourish so that it perhaps can serve as an example of what is possible when people come together and help one another to improve the lives of those who are most in need in the world," added Dhillon.

"Our executive committee has tasked Mr. Von Hardenberg to move forward with some large scale projects.

We hope to enhance the quality of life for the Congolese residents by sponsoring similar social projects and acting in accordance with the UN declaration for Human Rights and we are committed to ensuring the well-being of Congolese workers.

"God works in mysterious ways, I am just glad that Ms. O'Brian didn't give up and took the extra step to contact the Province and here we are today.

At least these 130 girls will not have to experience the let down of not going to school, God knows their lives are difficult enough as it is.

"Maybe I'm still an idealist at heart and despite the difficulties I have personally experienced in the world of business since I was a teen, after my father, Santokh Singh Dhillon passed away in 1996, I have been fortunate and look forward to assisting others with the knowledge I have acquired and to help any way I can to alleviate the suffering of others.

"Some of these girls are orphaned and have no one to care for them at all.

At the end of the day the thief only assisted in making sure these girls got the education they deserved.

I guess everything has its way of working itself out for the better," added Dhillon.

PlanCanada.ca/Sponsor/Children

Feedback - Ads by Google

Additional information:

Contact: Remi Consultants
Phone: 778-994-7987

Related Business articles:

- ▣ RezOvation Break-Through: Innkeepers Enter Guest Reservations Directly From Their Cell Phone...
- ▣ Benchmark introduces Logo and Watermarking Feature for Streaming Video
- ▣ LARABAR® Fuels Rower's Attempt to Make History
- ▣ Junction Networks Offers Thoughts On SunRocket's Demise
- ▣ PlatformOne Transitions Major Pittsburgh Law Firm to its Comprehensive HRO Services
- ▣ Obelisk International Analyses Investment Potential of Natal, Brazil
- ▣ AuctionAssist® Holds Key to Future eBay Growth
- ▣ The Sirkins Group and Zywave Announce Strategic Partnership

add your comments Bookmark this site

<<back to newswire

© 1969-2009 AMD Enterprises. Unless otherwise stated by the author, all content is free for non-commercial reuse, reprint, and rebroadcast, on the net and elsewhere. Opinions are those of the contributors and are not necessarily endorsed by AMD Enterprises. Disclaimer | Privacy
RSS feed for this site

Bigg News - <http://news.bigg.net>

---

national / business / press release Kingsgate Resources Inc. Donates Funds for Ghanaian Girls' Education: Dream for Children Restored After The Province Publishes Story

By: Remi Consultants (PRWEB)
Thursday, Jul 19 2007, 4:56am

Kingsgate Resources Inc., a mining company that was founded by Joseph Kingsley Annan, the nephew of the former United Nations two-term Secretary General, Kofi Annan makes dream a reality for Ghanaian girls.

Canadian-based gold mining and exploration company Kingsgate Resources Inc. has donated the requisite funds for a full year's education for 74 girls and has pledged a further five year's funding for 130 young women. The way in which this came about is a bit extraordinary.

On May 25, 2007, the Province published a story about a filmmaker's hopes to help young women in Ghana being dashed by a Vancouver thief.

Shannen O'Brian, 25, recently spent 15 months in Ghana, a county in West Africa of 23 million.

Six months of her time in Ghana was spent filming and photographing 130 young girls.

Her aim was to produce a documentary film detailing their lives and to use the film to initiate a sponsorship program for them.

O'Brian's idea was to approach Canadians to donate the money the girls needed to be educated beyond primary level.

All it takes to pay for one girl's education in Ghana from Grades 7 through 12, she says, is $400 to $500, roughly $8 a month.

Each prospective sponsor in O'Brian's program was to have received a video of their sponsored girl.

She returned to Canada in February and was working on editing the footage.

O'Brian's plan was derailed within the space of 30 minutes when someone broke into her Ford Explorer parked on Robson and Bute in downtown Vancouver, British Columbia.

"They took not only my computer with all my editing on it, they took my backup hard drive, my raw tapes, video camera, camera, pictures, everything.

I had nothing left."

Not knowing what to do next, O'Brian contacted the Province and a story was printed on May 25, 2007.

"I had to do something," said O'Brian. "I had 130 girls that thought they were going to school in September and their future was at stake.

So I contacted the Province in hopes of having someone with some information come forward so that these girls could get an education.

I didn't know how I was going to explain to them why they weren't going to be able to go to school."

The project is especially important, O'Brian explained, as girls in Ghana usually stop going to school earlier than boys because they are needed to work at home.

Just 67 per cent of Ghanaian women aged 15 and over are literate compared to 83 per cent of men.

What happened next was not something O'Brian had expected.

When Abbotsford resident Satinder Dhillon read the story published on May 25, 2007, he knew he had to do something.

Dhillon stated that he personally knows how it feels to be expecting something to happen in a certain time frame and the devastating impact it can have on adults and children living in North America let alone these young children who were looking forward to a different life finally in a third world country.

Dhillon, 29, is the CEO and President of Kingsgate Resources Inc., founded by Joseph Kingsley Annan, the nephew of the former United Nations two-term Secretary General, Kofi Annan.

Kingsgate is a company based out of Calgary and its principle focus is gold mining and exploration in Ghana, West Africa.

Dhillon stated that Kingsgate has paid for the first year for 74 of the girls Ms. O'Brian had yet to raise money for, to go to school and the company has pledged to pay for the entire six year plan for all of the 130 girls as presented by Ms. O'Brian.

"We hope this is a stepping stone to improving the quality of the lives of more than just these 130 girls," stated Dhillon.

"We have discussed with Ms. O'Brian the possibility of expanding this project to include new water wells for those in need in Ghana and other parts of Africa and assisting more young kids with the education they need to improve their future."

"It is not everyday you meet dedicated individuals such as Ms. O'Brian who are taking time out of their lives to help others.

She has an incredible passion for what she is doing and it is very evident and contagious," Dhillon said. "It gives you the motivation to want to help any way you can."

After reading the article published in The Province, Dhillon contacted Erwin Singh Braich, Trustee of The Peregrine Trust, the largest shareholder of Kingsgate and the decision was made to move forward with this project.

"We are so fortunate to be living in a country such as Canada and have the freedoms and facilities we do," stated Braich, a well-known Canadian industrialist and philanthropist. "It is heartbreaking to think of what others around the world have to go through just to survive on a day to day basis.

For the price of two Starbucks lattes a young child can go to school for a month and have money left over ... depending on what size of latte you prefer of course!"

Braich added that in addition, "currently one of our Group's Directors of Operations for Africa, Mr. J. Von Hardenberg, has been in the Democratic Republic of Congo for months at a time.

This country has recently held their first free elections in over 40 years.

"This recent election was the largest such mission ever taken on by the United Nations and thus far appears for the most part to have quelled the violence that has taken the lives of over 4 million people."

"We hope to be able to assist this very young democracy grow and flourish so that it perhaps can serve as an example of what is possible when people come together and help one another to improve the lives of those who are most in need in the world," added Dhillon.

"Our executive committee has tasked Mr. Von Hardenberg to move forward with some large scale projects.

We hope to enhance the quality of life for the Congolese residents by sponsoring similar social projects and acting in accordance with the UN declaration for Human Rights and we are committed to ensuring the well-being of Congolese workers.

"God works in mysterious ways, I am just glad that Ms. O'Brian didn't give up and took the extra step to contact the Province and here we are today.

At least these 130 girls will not have to experience the let down of not going to school, God knows their lives are difficult enough as it is.

"Maybe I'm still an idealist at heart and despite the difficulties I have personally experienced in the world of business since I was a teen, after my father, Santokh Singh Dhillon passed away in 1996, I have been fortunate and look forward to assisting others with the knowledge I have acquired and to help any way I can to alleviate the suffering of others.

"Some of these girls are orphaned and have no one to care for them at all.

At the end of the day the thief only assisted in making sure these girls got the education they deserved.

I guess everything has its way of working itself out for the better," added Dhillon.

Custom Christmas Cards

Easy To Use Greeting Card Design Software. Download It For Free Now!
Picaboo.com

Party Invitation Cards

Choose From Our Huge Range of Fun Invites & Tags. Secure Shopping.
www.StuckOnYou.biz

Free Birthday Invitations

Tons of Fun Templates. Add Photos & Music. Amaze All!
www.Smilebox.com

Free Printable Invitation

Download & Print Birthday Invites. Birthday Invitations - Fast & Free!
Print-Birthday-Invitations.com

Ads by Google

Additional Information:

Contact: Remi Consultants
Phone: 778-994-7987

Related Business articles:

- ▣ RezOvation Break-Through: Innkeepers Enter Guest Reservations Directly From Their Cell Phone...
  - ▣ Benchmark Introduces Logo and Watermarking Feature for Streaming Video
  - ▣ LĀRĀBAR® Fuels Rower's Attempt to Make History
  - ▣ Junction Networks Offers Thoughts On SunRocket's Demise
  - ▣ PlatformOne Transitions Major Pittsburgh Law Firm to its Comprehensive HRO Services
  - ▣ Obelisk International Analyses Investment Potential of Natal, Brazil
  - ▣ AuctionAssist ® Holds Key to Future eBay Growth
  - ▣ The Sitkins Group and Zywave Announce Strategic Partnership
-

Monday » January
5 » 2009

Mining exec digs deep for Ghanaian girls

Matthew Ramsey

The Province

Monday, July 23, 2007

An Abbotsford mining executive has stepped in to help a B.C. woman achieve a dream thought killed by an opportunistic thief.

Satinder Dhillon, president of the mining firm Kingsgate Resources Inc., has stepped forward to pay for 74 Ghanaian girls to go to high school.

Dhillon heard about the education project when he read

The Province in May and learned that the 25-year-old B.C. woman putting together the education project in Ghana had lost most of the critical materials to make it happen when her car was broken into.

Shannen O'Brian was devastated by the theft. Whoever broke into her car stole documentary film footage she intended to make into a film to launch the education program. O'Brian had hoped the film would encourage donations that could be used to fund the schooling.

A girl's education in Ghana from Grades 7 through 12 costs $400 to $500, roughly $8 a month.

O'Brian had taped 130 girls she hoped would benefit. She raised enough money for 56 of those girls to attend one year of school. Kingsgate is picking up the tab for the remaining 74.

He has also pledged to fund the full amount needed so all 130 can go to school for a full six years.

The company and O'Brian are now looking at whether the program can be expanded to include new water wells in Ghana and other parts of Africa.

"It's not everyday you meet dedicated individuals such as Ms. O'Brian who are taking time out of their lives to help others," Dhillon said.

"I'm just glad Ms. O'Brian didn't give up and took the extra step to contact The Province and here we are today. At least those 130 girls will not have to experience the letdown of not going to school."

The implications for the girls cannot be overstated, said O'Brian.

"They'll be able to take better care of their kids, make better food and have better nutrition," she said.

O'Brian heads to Ghana on Aug. 3 to buy and distribute bicycles to the girls and school uniforms and supplies.

Girls in Ghana usually stop going to school earlier than boys because they are needed to work at home. Roughly two-thirds of Ghanaian females aged 15 and over are literate, compared with 83 per cent of males.

mramsey@png.canwest.com

© The Vancouver Province 2007

CLOSE WINDOW

Copyright © 2009 CanWest Interactive, a division of CanWest MediaWorks Publications, Inc.. All rights reserved.
CanWest Interactive, a division of CanWest MediaWorks Publications, Inc.. All rights reserved.

Metal Futures Health Business Tech Science Travel Industry Energy Sitemap Archive Feedback

Search the World News Network

Search Any Language Advance Search

Calgary Mining

Mining News, coverage from hundreds of sources around the world.

PHONES.COM

Breaking News

Sat, 4 Aug 2007

Harper defends Barrick's Chile project
 Canada Dot Com
 | Prime Minister Stephen Harper's efforts to portray Canada as a positive role model in Latin America are being hampered by controversy over a gigantic Canadian precious-metals mining project on the Chile-Argentina border. | Barrick Gold, the Toronto-based global mining giant, is seeking permission ...

(photo: attribution)Home Corporation)

Canada Chile Construction Industry Photos

News Headlines delivered to your phone in 44 different languages

China, India will drive aluminum giant's success
 Canada Dot Com
 | SYDNEY - Mining giant Rio Tinto Group yesterday defended the price it has offered for Canada's Alcan Inc., saying the robust economic growth of China and India would see the business prosper. | The US$38.1-billion bid for the aluminum producer, the mining industry's biggest-ever acquisition, would...

(photo: WNY)

Canada China India Mining Photos

Ads by Google

Copper Scrap Price Bargain Prices. Smart Deals. Save on Copper Scrap Price!
 Shopzilla.com

Headlines »

Slideshow »

Enter Email

Weather Forecast

REGIONAL

- WN Africa
- WN Asia
- WN Australia
- WN Caribbean
- WN Europe
- WN Midwest
- WN C.America
- WN America
- WN Pacific
- WN S.America
- World Wide

BUSINESS

- WN Economy
- WN Energy
- WN Industry
- WN Money
- WN Currency
- Forex

METALS / INDUSTRY

- Aluminium
- Coal
- Copper
- Gold
- Platinum
- Platinum
- Silver
- Steel
- Titanium
- Zinc
- Metal Trading
- Metal Exchange

Advertising Company Contact Employment Media Kit

Ads by Google Alaska Mining Wow Mining Map Gold Mines Mining Careers

Judge urges truce in mining dispute

Canada Dot Com
 | Kingston A tense stalemate over a potential uranium mine north of Kingston may end today as an Ontario Superior Court judge continues to push both sides of the dispute to reach a temporary compromise. | This is the latest round in a conflict that b...

Stalemate over a potential uranium mine

Canada Dot Com
 | Kingston A tense stalemate over a potential uranium mine north of Kingston continued Thursday as an Ontario Superior Court Justice repeated his request to have both sides reach a temporary compromise. | This is the latest in a conflict that began l...

Mining stocks slide in London

Canada Dot Com
 | Copper led industrial metals lower in London on speculation a stock market slump spurred by losses from U.S. subprime mortgages will spread to commodities. | London Metal Exchange-listed metals have the highest correlation among commodities to the ...

Newly discovered purple frog said threatened by mining

Canada Dot Com
 A purple fluorescent frog (top), of the genus Melopus, discovered in mid-2006 by Surinamese scientists Paul Ouboter and Jan Mol, and a dwarf catfish (below), of the genus Guyanancistrus and dubbed 'big mouth' by its discoverers, are among 24 new spe...

World's biggest solar farm planned for California

Canada Dot Com
 | A San Francisco company said Friday it plans to build the world's largest solar power farm near Fresno, Calif. | The 80-megawatt farm is to occupy as much as 260 hectares and upo...

China Photos/WorldPhotos.com

Energy Farm Photos Power Solar

BP takes delivery of huge LNG ship

Canada Dot Com
 | BP PLC, Europe's second-largest oil company, said it took delivery this week of the world's largest ship capable of transporting liquefied natural gas as it expands its gas-shipp...

Christopher Photos/WorldPhotos.com

Britain Energy Industry Oil Photos

Bolivian leader derides biofuels

Canada Dot Com
 | Bolivia's president blasted ethanol production Friday, saying it was "sinister to convert food into fuel" in a speech that disputed an earlier address by Brazil's leader, who sal...

Spencer

PlattWorldPhotos.com

Bolivia Brazil Photos Politics S America

Mining critics 'facing death threats': report

Canada Dot Com

Opponents of a Canadian mining operation in Ecuador are "facing death threats and attacks," Amnesty International warned in a report released this week. The move comes at the same time as Ascendant Copper Corp. is responding to allegations of lan...

Mining company's former CEO being treated in hospital

Canada Dot Com

John Paterson, former CEO of Vancouver-based junior gold miner Southwestern Resources Corp., embroiled in controversy over tainted drilling results from its key Chinese property, is in hospital being treated for clinical depression. Public relat...

The drugs weren't mine, Lohan claims

Canada Dot Com

Actress Lindsay Lohan, accused of drunken driving and cocaine possession after her second arrest in a month, has denied she was taking drugs. Lohan, 21, was arrested early on Tuesday in Santa Monica, California, less than two weeks after a second...

Mining halted after tremor deaths

Canada Dot Com

AngloGold Ashanti Ltd., Africa's largest gold producer, was ordered by South Africa's mines ministry to stop production at its Moab Khotsoeng mine after two workers were killed following an underground tremor on July 20. The workers died after bel...

Smoke, not fire caused potash mine evacuation

Canada Dot Com

The evacuation of PotashCorp's Cory potash mine last Thursday morning was not the result of a fire, as previously confirmed by a rescue team that found the charred hood of a Bobcat front-end loader. In fact, the Bobcat had a mechanical failure on...

Miner found dead at Kidd Mine in Timmins, Ont.

Canada

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) - An employee at the Kidd Mine in Timmins, Ont. has died after falling down a 36 metre vertical cavity. The worker had failed to return to the surface at the end of his shift on Monday and a search was launched. A search and ...

Mining exec digs deep for Ghanaian girls

Canada Dot Com

An Abbotsford mining executive has stepped in to help a B.C. woman achieve a dream thought killed by an opportunistic thief. Safinder Dillon, president of the mining firm Kingsgate Resources Inc., has stepped forward to pay for 74 Ghanaian girls...

Is Your Bank In Trouble?

Free list Of Banks Doomed To Fail. The Banks Discover underexposed mining stocks ready and Brokers X List. Free!

V V

Mining Stocks to Explode

Free list Of Banks Doomed To Fail. The Banks Discover underexposed mining stocks ready for big gains w/ free alerts.

Ads by Google

Business

(photo: WN/Patricia)

Pakistan, China eat into India's onion exports

The Times Of India

NEW DELHI: Onion exports from the country declined by 27.8% during April-July this year over the same period in 2006, owing to high prices quoted by agencies undertaking sales, besides tough competition from Pakistan and China. Exports of onion dipped to 2.8 lakh tonnes till July 28 in the current financial year, against 3.9 lakh tonnes in the ...

Agriculture Export India Market Photos

Technology

(photo: PD File)

Fake mobile phones worth Rs 16 lakh seized

The Statesman

KOLKATA, Aug 3: Fake N-series mobile phones of Nokia, worth nearly Rs 16 lakh, were seized from a godown in Watgunge last night. A person has been arrested. Acting on a tip-off by Nokia officials, Enforcement Branch officials of Kolkata Police raided a godown at Karl Marx Sarani last night. Eighty-seven pieces of N-series Nokia phones were se...

Nokia Phones Photos Police Technology

become a WN member

WN Links WN Toolbar

BOOKMARK THIS PAGE! MAKE THIS PAGE YOUR HOMEPAGE! WN TOOLBAR!

WN Related

- 3D Geologist Coal Mining Copper Mining Copper Today Diamond Mining Gold Mining Gold Silver H. Industry News Metal Daily Metal Trading Mining Channel Mining Post Nickel Daily Ore Reserves Platinum Today Silver Mining Uranium Mining WorldGoldTrading Zinc Futures Zinc Mining

Enter symbol: GO Symbol Search

Table with columns EUR, USD and values 1, -1.39228

2009.01.05, 09:35 AM EST

Convert it!

WN Reports

- Autobiographical Central Japan Trade Chavez News Diodes Economic Patriotism Foreign Funds Freelance Hot Jobs Europe Maladie Tropicales Movie Soundtracks Numerous Fund Pervez Musherraf Volvo Womans College Zambia Technology

Sunday Monday Tuesday Wednesday Thursday Friday Saturday Travel Languages Jobs Submit Photos WN Links Zdrive © 2007 WN Network

Search

Contact our Advertising team for Advertising or Sponsorship on World News Network

Search

Grid of 18 thumbnail images with labels: Aluminium Futures, Aluminium Guide, Coal Trade, Copper Future, Copper Markets, Copper News, Copper, Copper Report, Copper Today, Gold Herald, Heavy Industry, Metal Exchanges, Metal Traders, Offshore Industry, Platinum Markets, Steel Tariff, Uranium News, World Metal Exchange